CERTIFICATION (IN LIEU OF OATH) IN SUPPORT OF PETITION

certifies and states:

1. In or about June of 2002, it became clear to me and to those who knew me that my 6 (six) year old marriage, to which 2 (two) beautiful children were born, was formed entirely on the basis of my (ex-) wife's immigration fraud.
2. In August and September of 2002, my (ex-) wife's parents began living with us for extended periods. During this period, I was emotionally and physically abused, illegally evicted and made homeless on 3 (three) separate occasions.
3. In March of 2003, after being advised by one of my children that they were "moving away without [petitioner]", and considering petitioner's 20 (twenty) year struggle with severe clinical depression and panic attacks, petitioner was hospitalized at Gracie Square Hospital in New York, N.Y. (See annexed letter of Dr. R. Wolfsohn, Exhibit 'A')
4. Once I was released from the hospital, my ex-wife sought and was granted a Temporary Restraining Order based on completely false statements. Accordingly, her T.R.O. was dismissed by the judge on the hearing date.

5. However, between the time of my hospitalization, the issuance of the T.R.O., months passed where I was illegally deprived access to the children of whom I had been primary caretaker for the entirety of their young lives.

6. This illegal deprivation of access to my children acted as a stressor upon my chronic conditions, in yet another 3 (three) hospitalizations at the Clara Maas Hospital in Bellville, New Jersey.

7. Primarily to gain injunctive access to my children, I filed a Complaint for Divorce in May of 2003. Justin Page v. Svetlana Page (a/k/a Lana Page), Superior Court of the State of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Family Part, Essex Vicinage, Docket Number 03-2815-07-F citing Extreme Cruelty as my sole cause for action. (Exhibit 'B')

8. At all relevant times, upon information and belief, my former wife, Svetlana Page, intra alia, maliciously destroyed or concealed documents pertaining to the subject application which were being correctly sent to my home address, but from which I was illegally barred.

9. On October 31, 2003, Justice James B. Convery of the Superior Court for State of New Jersey, County of Essex, entered a judgment of divorce as against my ex-wife, annexed hereto. (Exhibit 'C')

10. During one hurried, court-ordered exchange of documents, I received a Final Office Action rejecting my amended claims as being anticipated by prior art. I did not realize at the time that the "prior art", even if it was, had a later filing date than my own application.

11. Because of my relative ignorance to patent process, I did not realize that this document was not necessarily fatal.

12. I quickly went to the USPTO Web Site and found a Notice of Appeal, mailed it with a check for the requisite amount. I thought this was an appropriate venue. I now understand that I seek only to continue the prosecution of the application.

13. My wife soon thereafter closed or emptied the account upon which the check written to you was drawn. Therefore the check was returned to your offices unpaid.

14. Although I have moved to another state, have a new address (now appropriately filed) and intend to retain counsel for the continued prosecution of this action, my ex-wife continues to destroy mail sent to me and causes other problems for me.

15. For all of the foregoing reasons, I most respectfully ask the instant petition be granted as meeting the statutory criteria for unavoidable delay, and that my application continues to be prosecuted, due to the exigent circumstances detailed herein.

Dated: October 28, 2004

Very Respectfully,

Justin Page, Applicant, Pro Se

The Hon. James B. Convery

Justin Page was under my care in Gracie Square Hospital from March 31, 2003 until April 11, 2003. He had been admitted voluntarily for treatment of Major Depression. He had been successfully treated for this illness but his condition was exacerbated prior to hospitalization due to the precipitous break-up of his marriage and separation from his children.

Mr. Page responded well to treatment. He was not considered a danger to himself or others and he cooperated with and participated in all aspects of his treatment and care. Based upon my findings there is no basis to support a finding that Mr. Page would not be an excellent caretaker or that he could not conduct unsupervised visitation with his children.

There is no medical reason to suggest, nor did Mr. Page complain of, any enduring side-effects from his medications, that would support a finding that he would fall asleep while caring for his children.

Yours Sincerely

Roger Wolfsohn, M.D.

NOV 04 2004

OFFICE OF PETITIONS

Assistant Commissioner of Patents
Washington, District of Columbia 20231

Sir:

In response to Office Action dated December 11, 2002:

Moskowitz (U.S. Patent 2002-0018604) may not be "Prior Art" as against this application.

Respectfully, only one of the priority documents listed in the publication has a date earlier than the filing of this application. Because even that priority document has a filing date of less than 1 (one) year, Applicant respectfully submits that the Applicant conceived of his art and began diligent preparation for his application prior to December 7, 1999.

Moskowitz Does Not Teach our Invention's Solution to Identity Theft.

While Moskowitz discusses identity theft and some techniques intended to prevent it, it does not teach any solution to the problem. The present invention prevents, detects and can reverse adverse events associated with identity theft and other privacy invasions.

Moskowitz fails to disclose any steps to detect or reverse criminal identity appropriation. The addition of this element alone should make this application patentable over Moskowitz.

Moskowitz does not teach or instruct in the unobvious result of detecting and preventing identity theft. Moskowitz does not teach or instruct of a method for preventing adverse events related to identity theft in any regard.
